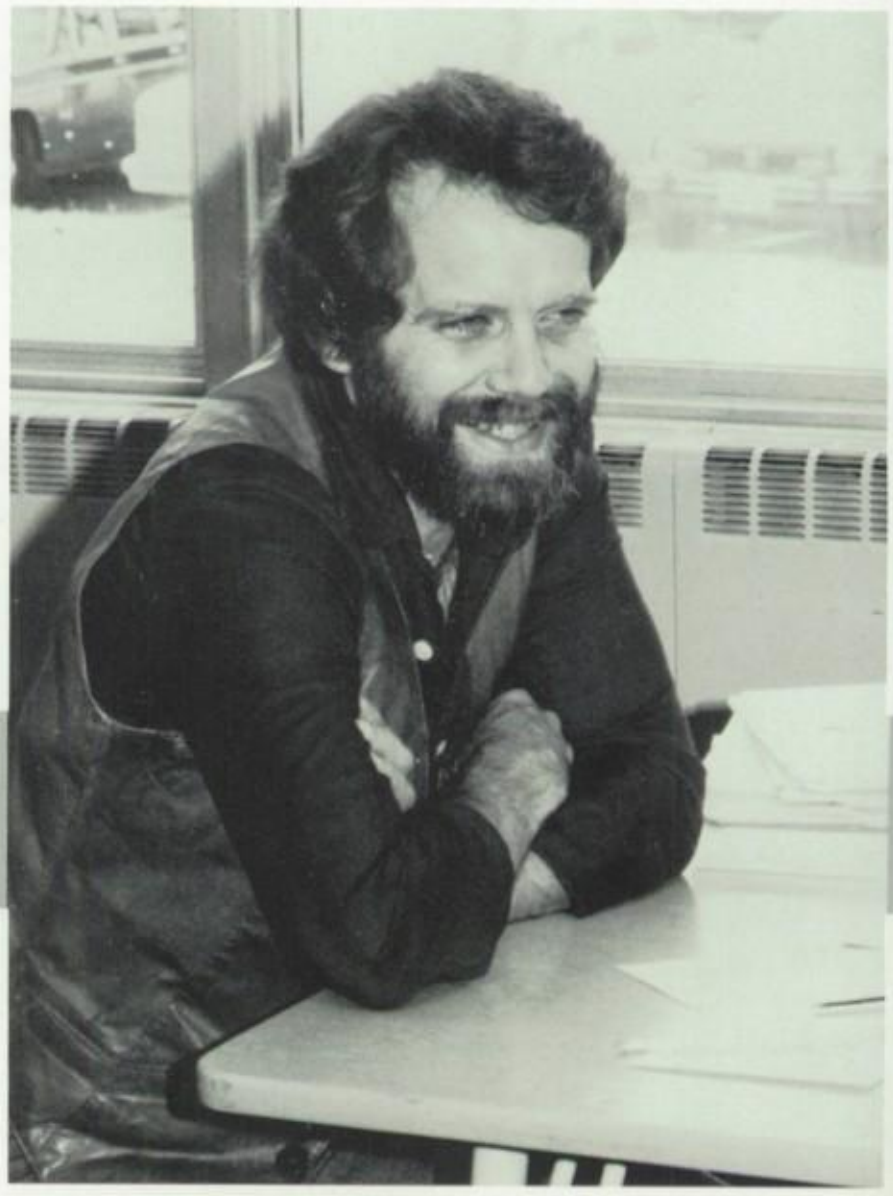
GUIDANCE

The Guidance Department at Chatham Township High School has its main goal meeting the individual needs of each student. This involves us with work in curriculum, schedule, academic, social and emotional counseling. The counselors cooperate closely with the Special Services personnel in case there is a need for psychological or social service and or supplemental instruction.

Visibility is first given to the counselor through orientation and testing programs. The latter provide data to each student to better know and develop their talents. Ultimately placement, be it college or work, becomes the "end of the line" for the graduate. In the interim, his credits and courses are arrived at with counseling. Career information and Decision course work are a joint effort between the counselors and our CIE coordinator. The program is in its second year for freshmen and first for sophomores.

Ronald Semer



Arnold Schwartz

Paula Della Piazza — Compensatory Education

Margaret Morris — Cooperative Industrial Education

Two years and five years after graduation, the Guidance Department conducts a follow-up study of the progress of graduates. From these studies, we constantly learn and strive for improvement.

Our belief is all people have talents. The challenge of life is to discover and develop them and to realize that education is a lifetime skill conducted both in and outside of a classroom setting.

Once again the English Department presents a strong field of returning verterans to challenge the English classes of Chatham Township High School. The team, even newcomers Theresa Wojnar and Mike Chupka, bring their Varsity letters on to the field. Led by an old English class veteran quarterback Mr. Ron Kunzman, flanked by twenty year veterans Jane Sprinkle and Bill Riley, with a strong supporting line of veterans the team promises to be stronger than ever.

Video-tapes as a means to stimulate writing is a new project spearheaded by Bob Riehl, and Audio Visual aids are being used extensively in other areas. In addition the department has attempted to spark greater participation in the various prose and poetry contests being offered to America's High School students. In the words of a writer of long ago, "Gladly would they learn and gladly teach."

SCIENCE

The Science Curriculum for 1982-83 includes a variety of science offerings. Available are three Earth Science courses: Modified Earth Science, Earth Science 1, and Earth Science 11; Four Biology courses: Modified Biology, Biology, Honors Biology, and Advanced Placement Biology; two Chemistry courses, Chemistry and Honors Chemistry and two Physics courses, Physics and Honors Physics.

The department would like to increase the number of science offerings in future years, and, on the senior level, develop independent study type courses.

Dear Jeff, 6/3/83

Hi what's up! Remember when, we teased each-other. It was a great year and I hope you come back next year. If not I'll miss the laughter. I want to say thanks for the pretty birthday card you gave me. Remember When you sprained your ankle and I helped you carry your books. KNOW you know how I felt when I had the opperation on my knee. I hope you have nice summer and get a girl friend soon. About that surprise I have for you today. It's a girl, NO Not me ha! He! Her name is Paula Shmitt She has short Brown hair Blue green eye's she's skinny and she's 15 years old I was telling her what a nice gentlmen you are. I hope you won't mind She smokes too every body I know smokes Siggarettes. Anyway Besides that She's a very nice person I hope you will Like her. I also told her what you look like. She says she wants to see you today. Unfortunatly she's single too. Please dress casual But spiffy. Wear something like a Concert shirt or a plad Flannel with the sleeves rolled up. Don't wear a Jacket. She won't be in a dress but she will Look nice. Oh yea almost forgot LEAVE the flannel open if you wear It don't button It up. well gotta go your Best Friend

Homecoming

Mr. Fenik proudly escorts Queen Ann

During the week of November 22-26, Homecoming Week, Chatham Township was swamped with a flurry of activities. Spirit Week consisted of Hat Day, Beach Day, and Blue and White Day; a contest which proved victorious for the seniors. The much anticipated dance Tuesday night, was the 16th annual celebration of Homecoming — and quite a successful one at that. Wednesday, the crowning of Queen Ann Hennigan, first runner-up Kim Casey, and second runner-up Ann Williams was clearly the high point of the week. The Thanksgiving Football game served as an opportunity to welcome our alumni, relatives and friends. This exciting and challenging game ended a tie — 15-15. The week was an all-around, nonstop fun-filled frolic that will be remembered always in the hearts of the spirited Chatham Township students.

Luminations

Advisor Mr. Cole

The CTHS literary magazine, Luminations, is a yearly publication of poems, short stories and drawings submitted by the students. Editor Suzanne Pence and Assistant editors Lauren Suraci and Karen Baker, along with the editorial board, worked hard all year to get the magazine printed in the spring.

1983 EDITORIAL BOARD — Jenny Rustad, Sharon Lauritzen, Jeff Christian, Karen Baker, Scott Shelley, Lauren Suraci, and Suzanne Pence. Missing from are Dave Harty, Tom Farrell, Alan Lulu, and Kristin Stettler.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

N.H.S. OFFICERS — Sue Berndt, Sharon Lauritzen, Ginger Webb, and Marlene Raedish

The National Honor Society was as honorable as ever this year. This select group of seniors, elected into the society for their scholarship, leadership, and service, took part in a very active year. This group, led by the officers and with the help of Mr. Cole, signifies the quality of Chatham Twp. students of our time.

N.H.S. Members pictured are: S. Berndt, J. Christian, C. Dewling, H. Witty, G. Kaufman, A. Mulford, B. Meyers, S. Lauritzen, A. Garhart, L. Kmetz, L. VanVorhis, V. Ryan, M. Miller, S. Viosky, G. Pathak, M. McCourt, A. Hennigan, B. Hyde, S. Grimm, S. Pence, S. Shelley, and M. Raedish.

VARSITY CLUB

Club officers are Kathryn Hintz, Sharon Grimm and Kerry Byrnes.

VO-TECH

Six of our students are enrolled in the shared time program at Morris County Vocational School in Denville. The students are transported by bus and spend 2½ hours in concentrated instruction in one vocational area. This instruction involves theory as well as hands on experience. Students find that time goes quickly because they like what they are doing. Most programs are completed in 1 year, although several involve a 2 year curriculum. Students return to CTHS for afternoon classes in English, History, and P.E.

Olympics of the Mind

Olympics of the Mind Team members

CTHS sent four teams into Olympics of the Mind competition this year, with their solutions to four different problems in creativity.

One team designed and constructed a car for which springs were the only source of energy. A second team designed and constructed an electrically powered machine to gather samples from a mine. A third team wrote and performed with puppets a humorous alternative to a scene from Homer's Odyssey. The fourth team designed and built an 8" structure of balsa wood strips which had to hold weights and withstand hits from a wrecking ball.

CTHS Olympics of the Mind competitors were Joe Byrne, Mary Carlin, Antonio Caviglia, Jonathon Flamm, Chris Hefele, Lani Hudgins, Charles Maier, Mihi Maniar, Jon Millard, Jim Monaghan, Michael O'Connell, Gaitri Pathak, Sumit Sen, Stephen Tsai, David Turnbull, Joe Urich, David Wernsing, and Sherry Wilson.

AFSAFSAFSAFSA

The 1982-83 AFS Club

The American Field Service club began the year with our usual picnic at Loantaka Park to welcome our AFS foreign student, Thuri Hauser from Switzerland. He is living with the Olmsted family and will be with us for his entire senior year. This past summer AFS reached all over the world. Three of our girls went abroad on the 2-month summer Americans Abroad program. Sue Berndt lived in Brazil, Ann Mulford in Sri Lanka, and Sue Morris in Norway. Mr. French continues as our advisor working with the officers planning various activities. Some of those activities which help spread the spirit of AFS are our short term exchange and international weekend. The help support our programs we raise funds through the sales of cider and AFS bond. AFS provides unique opportunities for us in Chatham Township to come to know people from other nations and cultures.

DEBATE

The Forensic Team.

1982-83 was a pioneer season for CTHS in the National Forensic League.

Although interested mainly in debate, members competed in other events such as oratorical interpretation, dramatic and humorous interpretation, extemporaneous speaking, and poetry interpretation.

Our first year was a building year for the debate team. With the help of our advisors Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Byrne, enough underclassmen interest was generated to start a forensic team that promises to be successful in the future.

CROSS COUNTRY

Coach Olzsewski

The 1982 Cross Country team finished up with its first winning season since 1977, with a record of 7 and 5. A large turnout of underclassmen became a major source of the teams strength.

Breaking the course record this year with a time of 16:08, was sophomore Jeff Bowne. Following right behind Jeff was Chris Furlong, John Szostak, Tom Ghareeb and Kevin Stonaker. Coach Olzsewski is looking forward to a strong returning team, and another successful season.

Chris Giordano

On your mark — get set — GO!

Field Hockey

The field Hockey team finished the 1982 with a record of 17-2-2. They won the Colonial Hills Conference Championship. Along with the conference title, some Township players earned high praise from the Colonial Hills Conference. The conference showed their respect and praise by electing Anne Casey, Kim Casey, Anne Marie Driscoll, Sharon Grimm, Sandy Kline, Pauline Mason, Sue O'Niel and Lauren Suraci to one of the All-Conference teams.

The team's best contest of the year was played against Basking Ridge. It was there that a dazzling display of hockey skills was put on.

The team had a very good season. According to Coach Gail Chesnut, "They were good enough to go to the finals of the state tournament. But the Glads didn't make it to the finals."

Although the Glads were not victorious they did however, play an excellent match against Belvedere. The Gladiators kept Belvidere in check for the entire regulation periods. But, come overtime, the ball slipped past goalie Anne Casey to win the game. "Our inability to score really hurt us" said Chesnut.

The loss to Belvedere was a heart breaker, the season, on the whole was a success.

The 1982 Gladiator Football Team

YUM, YUM EAT 'EM UP

The 1982 football season was one in which it truly can be said that the record did not reflect how good the team was. In their first game against Mt. Lakes, they dominated the first half. A couple of fumbles though, deep in the Lakers territory made the halftime score 0-0. But in the 2nd half Mt. Lakes got big breaks which took them to victory. The same thing happened with Glen Ridge. The Glads came in with a record of 2-3 to Glen Ridges' 4-1 record and again seemed to take over the first half with a halftime score of 7-7. It's necessary to point out that later on Glen Ridge won both the conference and state titles.

The 3-5-1 season highlight was the annual Thanksgiving Day game against the Boro. The Gladiators were tied 15-15 and they were marching down the field when time ran out. The reactions of both teams were interesting. The Eskies were relieved when the game ended and that it ended in a tie. The CT football team, though, were frustrated because they wanted to win.

The Gladiators sure did have the talent. They will lose the following starting seniors to graduation: Bill Waltzinger, Andy Jarvis (co-capt.), John Warwick, Mike Ragoza, Mike Buroughs (co-capt.), Craig Meile, Paul Christensen, Matt McDowell (co-capt.), Scott Shelley, Ken Watson, Robert Nelson, and John Farrell.

Paul Christensen (90) lines up a tackle as Tony Galenas (35) pursues from behind.

TENNIS

This year the CTHS girls' tennis season came to a close on November 10 as they dropped an exciting 3-2 match to Haddonfield. The match was the semi-final Group 1 State Tournament. The team finished with a 19-3 record and two titles. They won the Colonial Hills Conference Championship with a 5-0 sweep over Montclair Immaculate. They then took the Group 1, North Jersey Sectional' Championship with a 3-2 win edging Chatham Boro.

Coach Lovi

Anna Daffey and Julie Hammond

The team also finished second in the Morris County Tournament. Unfortunately, our 3 top singles will not be back next year. But the abundance of good players seems to assure that the tradition of girls tennis will continue to be strong.

SOCCER

The Varsity Soccer Team had a surprisingly successful season, with a new coach and a disappointing previous season the expectations were low. Coach Jerry Russo, who was named Colonial Hills Conference Coach of the Year, put together a flawless line-up. Within two weeks of keen perception of available talent, he organized a Conference Championship Team and a strong contender in the state and county tournaments. The overall record was 18-2-1. The Varsity is losing 7 starting players as a result of graduation: Terry Melia, Brian McGonigle, Craig Dewling, Geoff Keith, Chris Ohlweiler, Eric Blumenthal, and Peter Rech. But with a promising JV team, next season should not be underestimated.

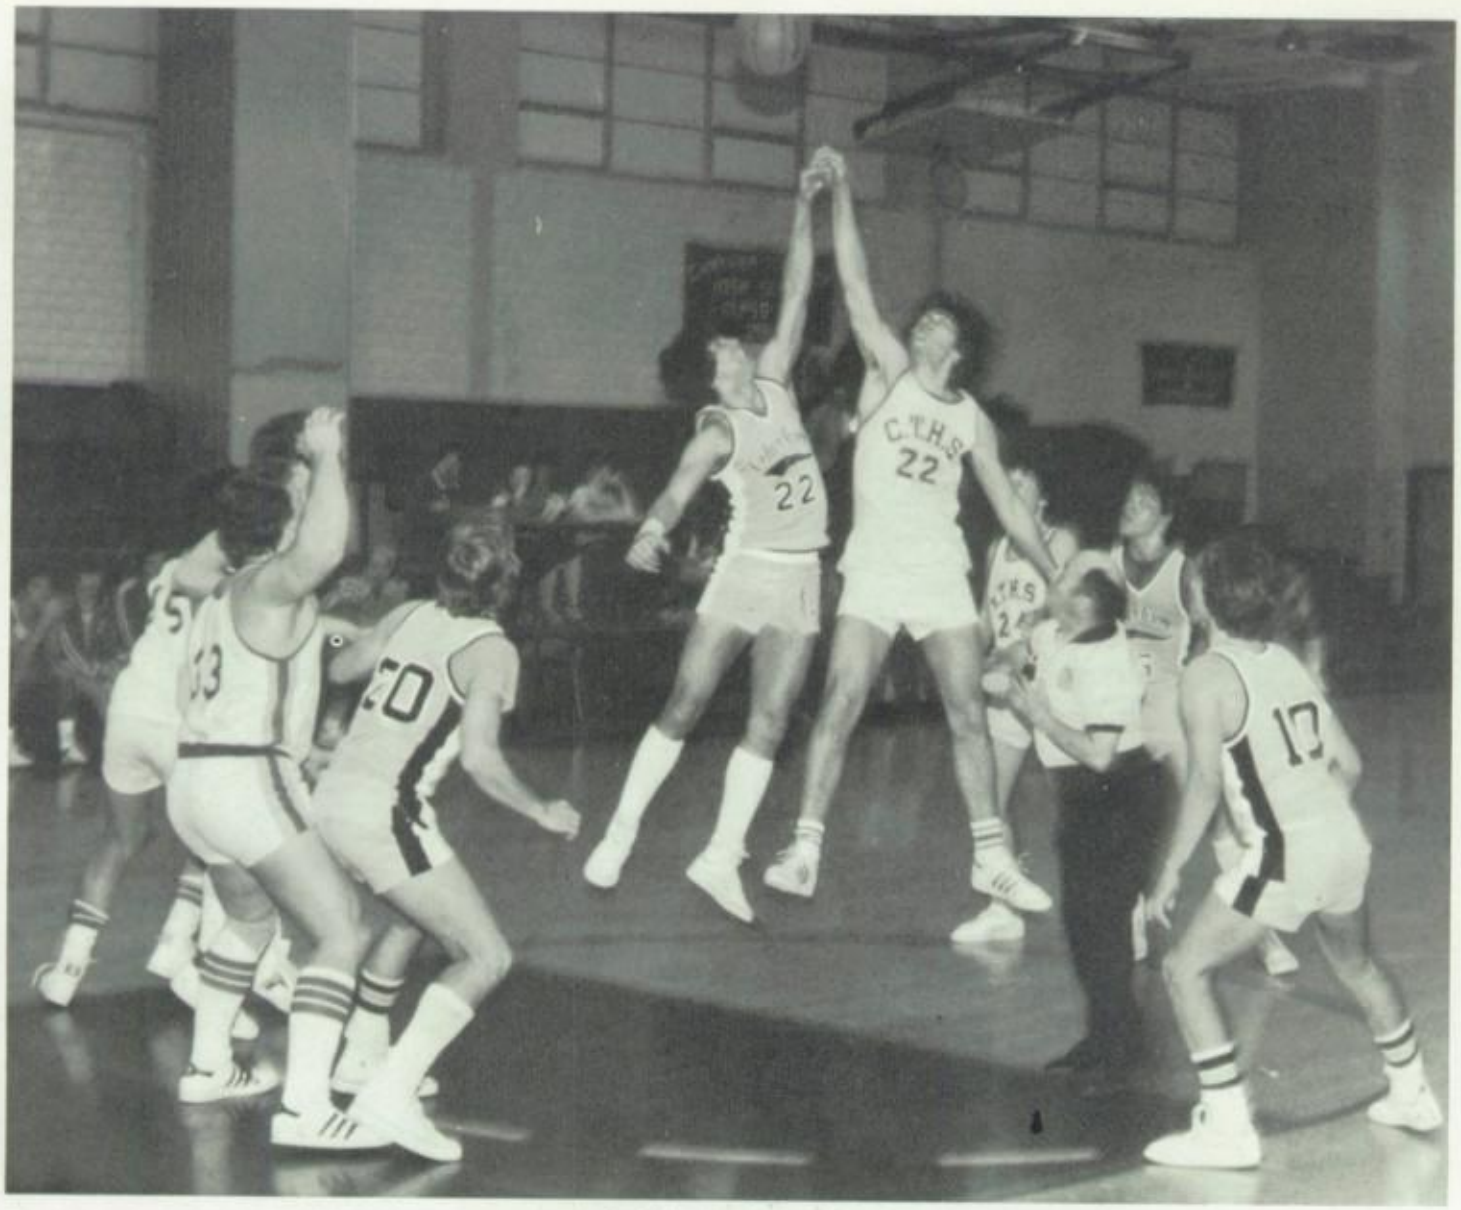
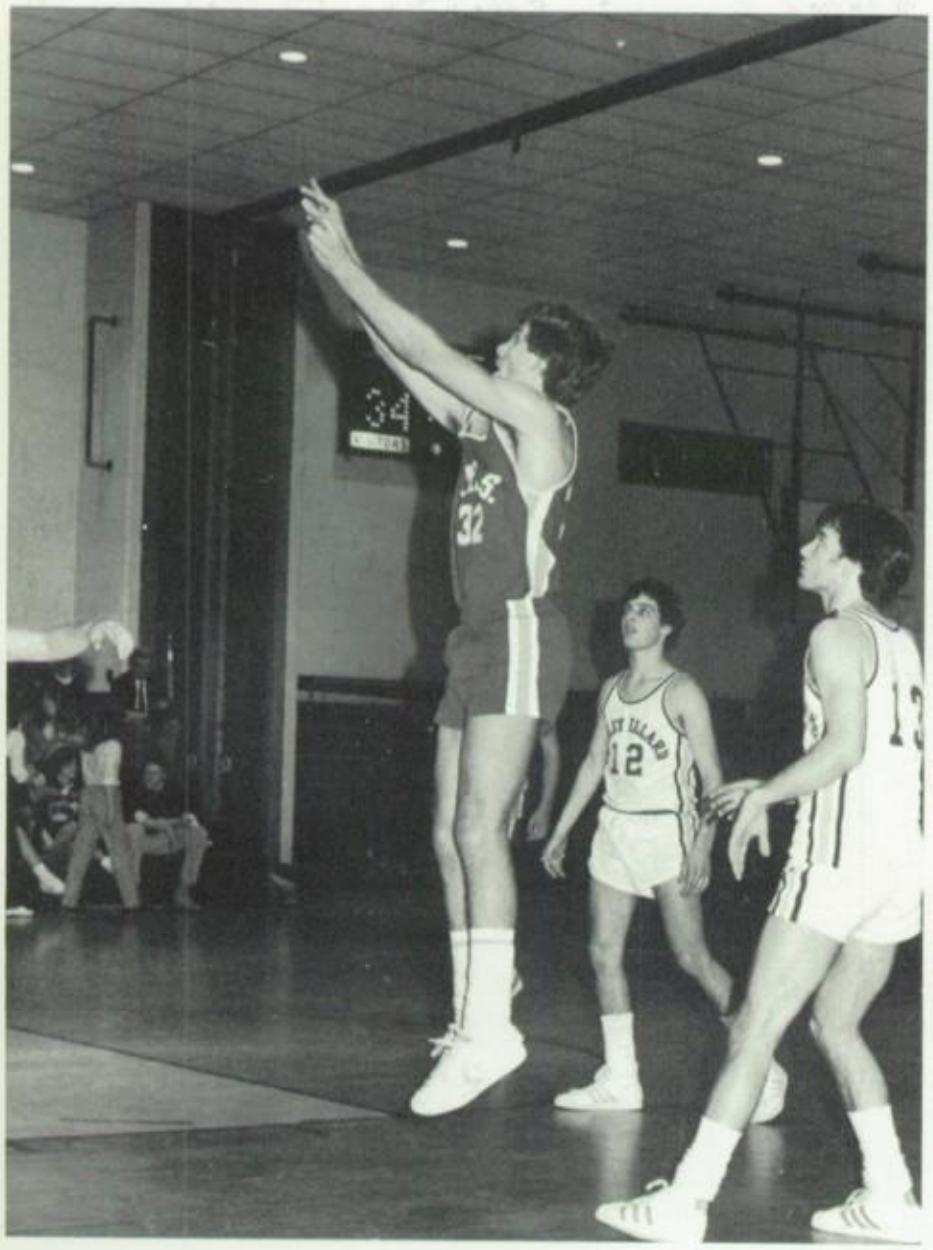
Varsity Basketball



And the game begins.



How sweet it is!

This year's 82-83 Varsity Basketball team, led by Coach Kevin Duggan, finished with a record of 5-15. This is very deceiving because many of their games were very close and they could have gone either way. Although they only won 5 games, this was a big improvement over last year's dismal record of 0-20.

The glads on the attack

The girls had yet another great season. Led by coach Kathy Hauser and Miss DelliSanti, the girls had a record of 10-9. Three of the girls were elected to the Christmas Tournament All Star Team, Sue O'Neil, Bay Driscoll, and Sue Redding. The Glads also made it to the states. They will lose this years' high scorers Sue Redding, Anne Marie Driscoll, and Diane Kissel. We wish the team the best of luck next year and we are sure that they will live up to the CTHS girls basketball standard.

ICE HOCKEY

Mark Giuliano behind the net

TEAMWORK WAS THE KEY

The Township ice hockey team skated to yet another successful season. They brought home a league record of 12-1 and an overall record of 14-5. The key to the team's success, however, was much different this year than in past years.

They relied on what became known as Cohen's system. It employed hard work, discipline, and most of all, teamwork. Coach Cohen knew at the outset of the season that he was working with a young team. With a backbone of four experienced seniors he knew that to win, each player would have to play a very different role. In the system, each player was like a part of a machine, doing his job to the best of his abilities and depending greatly on his teammates to do theirs.

"The system is just a tool" Coach Cohen repeatedly stressed, "and a tool is no better than the worker. We know if we play it well we are going to win." And win they did! In regular season play they handily defeated arch-rivals Delbarton and Morristown Beard by scores of 4-1 and 7-2 respectively. The Glads beat every other team in the league, establishing themselves as the most polished team and continuing the Townships hockey tradition.

Of course Hollywood Ohlweiler's never-ending breakaway goals helped, along with Pete McNally's crushing checks at the blue line. And Jack Gill's orbiting, sandwedge, slapshot was invaluable, as was Mark Guiliano's shishkabob-yourself-on-your-stick trick. But through it all, teamwork was the key.

The team would like to thank its supporters both in school and in the community. You showed a lot of spirit and class — we were proud to represent you. You made our season! Thank You.

Editor's Note

Near the end of the season Chris Ohlweiler was unanimously chosen by the Morris County ice hockey coaches as the league's Most Valuable Player. Also he and Dave Williams were voted to the American Division All Star Team.

TRACK

Super Jim coming to the rescue.

Kevin Stonaker clears the bar.

The 1982 season for track saw quite an improvement from 1981's 0-10 season. This "turnaround" is attributed to several things. First of all there were many members of the team who began getting in shape after school in the universal gym, many months before "official" practice started. Another contribution was the fine support of the underclassmen. Added to the well balanced upperclassmen, they went on to a 6-4 season, winning two of them by less than 4 points and losing one by 5 points.

Top scorer last year was Co-Captain Glen Dyer in the 100, 200, and 400 meters. He was quicker than almost anyone in the conference. Other point scorers were: Co-Captain Mark Taglienti — weight events; Mark Shelley — pole vault and 110 400 meter hurdles; Steve Carroll — weight events; Paul Christensen — long jump, high jump, and sprints; Jim O'Neal — 800 meters and mile relay; Pete Conkling — weight events and long jump; and Jean Chambon — 110 and 400 meter hurdles and mile relay. If 1983 is to be as good a season they'll have to have such diversity as the 1982 track team did.

Class Notes

The class of 1985 led an active Sophomore year. This year's officers include: President, Laura Smith; Vice President, Kristin Van Voorhis; Secretary, Angela Feeny and Treasurers, Kevin Carey and Ed Clary. Our class activities consisted of a car wash, Dunkin Donut and pizza sale. We also worked at recycling centers. A special thanks to our class advisor, Mrs. O'Hara and our class mothers, Mrs. Eidt and Mrs. Kein, whom we couldn't do without.

Class Notes

The class of '84 has had its best year of fundraising and class spirit ever! Under the guidance of our class advisor Mrs. Morris and class mothers Mrs. Kincaid and Mrs. Wheat, our holiday plant sale was a huge success! With the leadership of our President Gary Sagendorf, Vice President Cindy Patzau, Co-Secretaries Janet Mallett and Lauren Suraci, Treasurer Charlene Triano and Officer's Assistant Mark Bensen, our new endeavor Recipes Galore From the Class of '84 cookbook sold like hotcakes! Our class gained a new unity and spirit in this difficult Junior year that will assuredly carry over to when we're Seniors.

There are in each of us two conflicting tendencies: To grow up, And to turn back.

Throughout our years of school together many people have entered our town and made our class grow, but for all of those who have stayed, many have left. Leaving behind their influence and memories which are frequently forgotten and occasionally remembered. We would like to take this time to remember and acknowledge all these past "fellow-classmates:"

THE CLASS OF 1983 — A SMASHING SUCCESS
A Review by Mary Carlin

My pace quickened as I neared the Lulu Theatre. I had heard many interesting things about this musical, "The Class of 1983" and was eager to confirm my suspicions and/or fears. After all, I was a member of the class of '83 myself, and naturally, was curious as to the nature of the show.

On my way, I passed a theatre where "Rapunzel" starring Adria Garhart, with Gail Simon as her understudy, was previewing. "I must see that next week," I thought to myself. As I approached my destination, I saw a billboard for "Holiday on Ice", starring Smurfs, Eric Blumenthal and Terry Melia. Apparently, the star soccer players skate with the troupe in the winter and play soccer on the Cosmos with Brian McGonigle in the spring and summer. Yet another billboard informed me that the circus was coming to town and that I shouldn't miss Sharon Driscoll's terrific cycling act (unicycles, bicycles, etc.) nor fail to ask the gypsy, Madam Leticia (Gomez), to tell my fortune. Outside the theatre, I was accosted by four bald gentlemen dressed in robes carrying flowers in their arms. I didn't recognize them at first but then I realized it was Rob Nelsen (who works part-time as a driving instructor at Judy DeStefano's School of safe driving), Tom Dresdner, Rich Strevens, David Johnson. They had all turned over new leaves and joined the Hari Krishnas. Johnson, a leading photographer for "Life" magazine, was setting up a picture of the other three for a new ad campaign. "The Hofstra University chapter's membership is down. This picture will be on our recruiting poster." Rich explained to me. I denied their requests to buy a flower and entered the theatre.

Valerie Moran took my ticket and usherette Laura O'Leary handed me a program and showed me to my seat. To my surprise, seated next to me was none other than Jeff Christian, political cartoonist for a popular Washington paper. Jeff explained to me that although theatre people make him nervous, his paper had no one else to review the show, so they sent him. "Besides," he said, "I'm just as curious as you are."

As I looked around the theatre, I noticed several other celebrities who had come out for the gala opening. Rock stars Randy Raab and Geoff Keith were discussing their next tour with "roadie" Scott Shelley, while groupies Mary Pamplin, Judi O'Hare and Sue Thuring were staring at them in awe. U.S. ambassador to Switzerland, Liz Casey, was busily chatting with the Swiss ambassador to the U.S. Thuri Hauser, about Generalissimo Mario DeSteigeur's successful attempt to overthrow a small Latin American country, of which he is now the military dictator. I could hear Liz say something about John Schwenck being his closest advisor and serving as Secretary of State for Mario. Her face being printed on the cover of Cornflakes boxes, I easily spotted Miss America, Kathleen Mylett and decided to talk with her a while before the show started. "Did you hear Senator Gregg Kaufman is being impeached for embezzling funds to support his chain of men's clothing stores?" "No," I replied. "How did they find out about it?" "His accountant, Barbara Behre, said she just couldn't take the pressure anymore." "Didn't Gregg marry night club singer, Holly Witty?" I inquired. "Yes" she said. "And they have three kids and a dog and they still insist nothing is going on between them."

Seated next to her was Texas oil tycoon, John Warwick, and his entourage of top fashion models, including Sue Driscoll, Laura Garrison, Dianne Sykes, Joan Henry, and Sue Vezzosi, each of them wearing a full length mink coat purchased at Jon Brooks Fur Vault. I decided to return to my seat, as the house lights were starting to dim. Thunderous applause erupted as conductor Stephen Hughes and flute soloist Susan Whalin entered to begin the overture.

While the overture was being played, I leafed through the playbill to look over some of the credits. Producer Lee Goodman had spared no expense in getting the best in the business for this production: critically acclaimed director Allen Lulu, Tony award-winning set designer Marlene Raedisch, equally renowned costume designer, Elayne DeNunzio, professional make-up artist, Leslie Harper, Krissy "hairdresser to the stars" Kerwin, creative men's hair stylist Tom Lombardie, and innovative sound effects engineer Chris Ohlweiler.

On the next page was a close-up of model Andrea Hartwig's face, advertising Hilary Ward's new line of cosmetics. I noted, while looking through the program, an ad for the new fall line-up for Bruce Hyde's television network. One of the shows, "Alex and Annie", starred Richard Alexander and Anne Arimond who sang songs about children's problems. Another show was a take-off on "The Waltons," starring Chris "John Boy" Dunn, who married successful businesswoman, Karen Perry. The last new show "8 to 4" starred Nancy McGee, Janet Borkowski, and Janet Baron as executive secretaries, fighting to hold their own in the ruthless corporate world. I turned the page to see the smiling face of Leslie Lombardo made up as Aunt Jemima. Quaker Oats corporation must have caught wing of her terrific Halloween costume and hired her to pose for magazine ads. I closed the program as the overture concluded. A hush came over the audience as the curtain rose.

The opening scene, and all of the scenes in the show for that matter, take place at the twenrieth year reunion of the high school of a small suburb town located somewhere in New Jersey. The valedictorian, Steven Jones, (believably portrayed by Stephen Tsai), surprisingly enough, is the only one in the class who has not found his calling. Seated at a table with name tags, were the two Pep Club advisors, that highly resembled, Kim Casey and Mrs. Jane A. Busch (Jane Carton). It seems she did succeed in attaining her M.R.S. degree at college.

"Hi Steve," they said simultaneously as he walked into the gym. "Hello," replied Steven. "Here's your nametag and there's a bowl of punch in that corner if you get thirsty. Have a good time!" said "Kim" in a typically cheerful manner.

Steven walked away from the table and glanced about the gym to decide who he would talk to. He heard some people arguing and turned to see who it was. It was "Tom", "Dick", and "Harry", although they personally reminded me of Ed Read, Matt Gebert, and Darren Kieznoski. "I will not lower my cold cut prices until you stop giving away S&H green stamps," said Kings' manager "Dick". "I will stop giving green stamps only if he lowers his lima bean prices," replied Acme manager "Tom", pointing at A&P manager "Harry." "I don't want to get involved in that," said Steven, and wisely decided not to talk to them. While turning away, he bumped into "The Invisible Man", wonderfully played by Peter Strohl. "Watch where you're going fella." "Oh, excuse me," apologized Steven. "Yeah, well, next time watch where you're going," he said and walked away in a huff. "Touchy guy," thought Steven to himself.

He heard some loud laughter and looked to see half of the football team that had won the Superbowl the past year drinking beer and joking. Ken Watson, Mike Ragoza, John Farrell, Bill Waltzinger, Andy Jarvis, Matt McDowell, Paul Christensen, and Mike Burroughs seemed to be really enjoying themselves. Steven decided to join them.

"Hey Steve, how's it going?" asked Andy. "Oh okay." "So, what have you been doing lately?" "Not much, how about you?" "Well, I've retired from football and now I'm a sports commentator for ABC. Gosh I can't believe you haven't decided what to do with your life yet. It's been twenty years," said Andy. "It's a rough decision and I don't want to rush into anything." "Have you considered music? I could get you a job in my band," volunteered singer Paul Christensen. "I've decided to quit football and get an act together for 'Vegas'." "Or how about wrestling? Let me tell you, there's a lot of money to be made in that field. I, myself, am the 'Masked Marvel' and received a hundred grand for winning the championship this year," stated Mike Burroughs. "Well if you start wrestling," began Matt McDowell, "You're going to need a life insurance policy. I think I have just the plan for you . . ." "No thank you," replied Steven and briskly walked away before the salesman could start his pitch.

While watching the show I was suddenly bombarded by a shower of "Dots". I turned around in my seat to see teacher Shelley Orrico trying to control an unruly bunch of kindergartners. "Sorry," she said. "That's alright," I said and resumed watching the show.

Steven was getting distressed about what Andy had said. "When will I ever find out what to do with my life?" "A typical song cue," I noted. Steven sang a few verses, quite well, I might add and out came the dancers, Paula Burke and Theresa McNally (who had opened their own studio, "Miss Paula's and Miss Theresa's Dance Studio for Children") and Miriam Kelleher and Stephanie Sandlin (of "Anything Goes" fame) to assist him in a dance routine.

After the song, Steven said, "Thanks girls. But I still haven't discovered what to do." "Perhaps I can help you. What's your sign?" inquired astrologist Jennifer Agnello. "Aquarius." "Ah, not to worry. You will meet a beautiful dark-haired woman with blue eyes. She will help you." "How? And when?" "Very soon," she said and sauntered away.

And the curtain closed for the end of Act One. Not a bad show I thought to myself, and looked through the program to see who had helped Lee Goodman finance the show. Jeanette Scala, owner of Cachet, gourmet Peter Conklin owner of a popular restaurant (Bob Meyers is the maitre'd) where they only serve cheese sandwiches. Schnippers owner Dan Garreau, owner of Athlete's Locker Jon Richardson, Martha Davis and Nell Donnelley own a Friendly's. Craig Miele and Nick Stavrakis, partners in the garbage business, and long underwear entrepreneurs Anne and Todd Demakos had all invested in the show. "They'll make a killing" I thought, and went to get a drink before the second act began. In the lobby, I ran into flight attendants, Lenore Honecker, Michaela Walsh and Cindy Blackburn. "We thought we'd stop and see the show before our next flight to Budapest," Michaela explained. I chatted with them for a while but saw L. L. Bean executives Laura Heyl and Kerry Byrnes and wanted to say hello. "Hi Kerry. Hi, Laura. How's business?" "We're coming out with a new line of tennis wear named after tennis stars Lindsay VanVoorhis and Suzann Redding, and designed by Julie Evans," Laura informed me. "Terrific. Say, speaking of tennis, how's Kathryn? Has she recovered from her car accident yet?" "Oh she's fine. She gets a chauffeur driven limosine to all of her tournaments now," said Kerry. "Good. Isn't that great about Nancy Gibbie and Sharon Grimm winning gold medals for field hockey. I really feel sorry for AnneMarie Driscoll though." "Yes, it's really a shame the Olympic committee took away her gold medal," said Laura. "Why did they take away her medal anyway?" I asked. "She forgot to remove her fishing hat while the National Anthem was playing."

The lights in the lobby started to flash: the second act was about to begin. But before I returned to my seat, I caught a glimpse of Saturday Night Live stars, Terri Gentile and Danny Hunczak, and star of the new "Our Gang" series, Keith "Waldo" Meyer were discussing Heather Batting's decision to leave the convent and marry Mick Jagger. But, I didn't want to miss any part of the terrific musical, so I had to forego speaking with them and take my seat.

The curtain rose. Steven was standing center stage, pondering over what the astrologist had predicted. Perplexed, he turned to advice columnist Ann Landers, played perfectly by Ann Hennigan. "Ann, I don't know what to do with my life? Can you help me?" "I'm not sure, Steve. You have to discover what you want in life before you can get it. Remember Steve . . . (another song cue) Rivers belong where they can ramble, Eagles belong where they can fly, You've got to be where your spirit can run free. Got to find your corner of the sky." Apparently, producer Goodman had bought the rights to the song from the authors of "Pippin." "Thanks, Ann." "No problem," she replied. "See you around."

So Steve went about the gym asking his classmates for suggestions for life goals. He confronted Vicky Cialone, dental hygienist. "Well you could always try dentistry. I'm making a real bundle. How do you think toothpaste models Sue Viosky, Tony Tedesco, and Cindy Garton keep their teeth looking so bright? Certainly not by Crest alone." "That's very true, but I don't think I want to be sticking my fingers into wet mouths for the rest of my life," said Steve. "Well, don't say I didn't try."

He turned around to see Spanish teacher Margaret Freda (who had married TV repairman Leighton Smith), math teacher Gail Murphy, and high school librarian Beth Mueller trying to negotiate a new contract with Board of Education president David Gould near the punch bowl. The teachers and librarian were complaining about low pay, insolent students, and the number of sick days allotted each teacher. "Well I won't go into education," Steven said to himself.

"Steven, whatever you do, don't start smoking," advised Surgeon General Marion Smith and American Cancer Society members Karen Brown,Joanne Brendkle, and Andrea Lopez. "We heard you didn't know what to do with your life. You can be anything, but don't be a smoker," said Marion. "Thanks for the advice," said Steven shaking his head in disbelief as they jogged off with New York Marathon winner Kevin Stonaker.

"Now I know how to live my life, but I still don't have a goal. I don't have anything to work toward." "Very interesting," commented psychiatrist Sharon Lauritzen and psychologist Louisa Guiero in unison. "For you, maybe. But it's very frustrating to me. I have no purpose in life."

"Well with a little work you could be cute like us," interrupted cuties Adele DiBari and Craig Dewling. "We guarantee that with our new book, You Too Can Be CUTE, you can be cute within four to six weeks," explained the adorable co-authors. "Not interested," said Steven sharply, and abruptly turned away from them.

"What am I going to do?" Steven asked himself. "I know, I'll ask model Lisa Kmetz. She's married to a famous Spanish philosopher. She'll be able to help me." "la vida es sueno or life is a dream," Lisa replied to Steven's question about life. "What do you mean?" "I don't know. That's what my husband always says when faced with a question about life." "Yeah, right. Thanks very much Lisa. Well, I'm back where I started."

"Have you considered going into business for yourself?" suggested General Motors president Glenn Johnson and vice-president David Sposobiec. "Yes, the pharmaceutical business had been particularly good to me," added Greg Glassco. "Whatever you do, don't get into the used car business. Sales are down," advised Nevada used car dealer, Kevin Davis. "That goes double for the used boat business," said John Sgroi, boat salesman. "Well, I don't think I have the business smarts that you have." "Good luck, Steve," they said and went to get something to eat.

"Whatever happened to that beautiful girl I was supposed to meet?" Just then, a gorgeous girl sauntered over, she was Gairri Parhak. "Beautiful, dark hair, this could be her," said Steven to himself. But as she drew closer, he saw that she had brown eyes, not blue. "Not her" he muttered to himself. "What did you say?" asked Gairri. "Oh, nothing," he said. "Anyway, I was wondering if you might be interested in becoming a chemical engineer. Vickie Ryan and I work for Exxon. Suzanne Pence is our boss. It's great. You get to travel, meet new people. In fact, Vickie was just sent to our headquarters in Costa Rica just last week." "I really don't care too much for Latin America." "Okay. Take it easy, Steve."

As Steven walked around the gym, he saw Dr. Ginger (of WYNY fame) counseling gigolo Artie Howard. Suddenly shots rang out. (Nice effects, Chris, I thought) Terrorists Valerie Weisbecker, Chris Gebert, and Melissa Biggar burst into the gym. "All right, everybody freeze. We're holding U.S. ski team members John D'Costa, Seaneen Regan, Cathy Fish, and John Szostak until our demands are met," shouted Chris. "I want the colors of the flag changed to red, white, and purple," stated Valerie. "I want equal rights for peach farmers," complained Melissa. "I'm going to reinstate the Third Reich!" shouted Chris.

News correspondent Marla McCourt entered the gym to cover the story. "Okay, Joe (Porvin) set up the camera here." Marla began relating her story to her TV audience when pro hockey players Peter Rech, Mike Graham, and Mark Guiliano jumped the three terrorists. Unfortunately, Melissa managed to shoot Peter in the arm before police chief David Conrads was able to handcuff them. Dr. Kristin Stettler rushed to the scene to attend to him while her husband Dr. Michael Miller-Stettler bandaged animal trainer John McGuth whose snake bit him when the gun went off. Meanwhile, UN translator Cynthia Hodgins was explaining to matador Xavier Aldorequia what was going on (after 20 years, he had forgotten most of his English).

"Gosh, that was exciting!" exclaimed the U.S. ambassador to Brazil, Sue Berndt. "Not as exciting as my next assignment in Latin America is going to be," chuckled professional hit man Sam McDowell.

"Where is that dark haired woman?" shouted Steven. "Steve, life is like a game show. Sometimes you win and sometimes you lose," said Mike Artiglere, Richard Dawson's replacement on "Family Feud." "How do you think I felt when I discovered an equation more universal than Einstein's Theory of Relativity, but no one could read my handwriting?" asked scientist Matt O'Connell. "Or when I lost the women's pro bowlers' tournament" added Diane Kissel.

But then suddenly, she appeared, the beautiful dark-haired girl with the blue eyes naturally played by Sue Morris. "Steven," she said. "Your goal in life should be simply to be happy." "Ah," sighed Steven. "What is it that makes you happy?" "Well, I always liked mixing drinks. I think I'd like to own a bar. In fact, I have had my eye on a small watering hole in Tiajuana, but . . ." "Say no more, I'll supply the money."

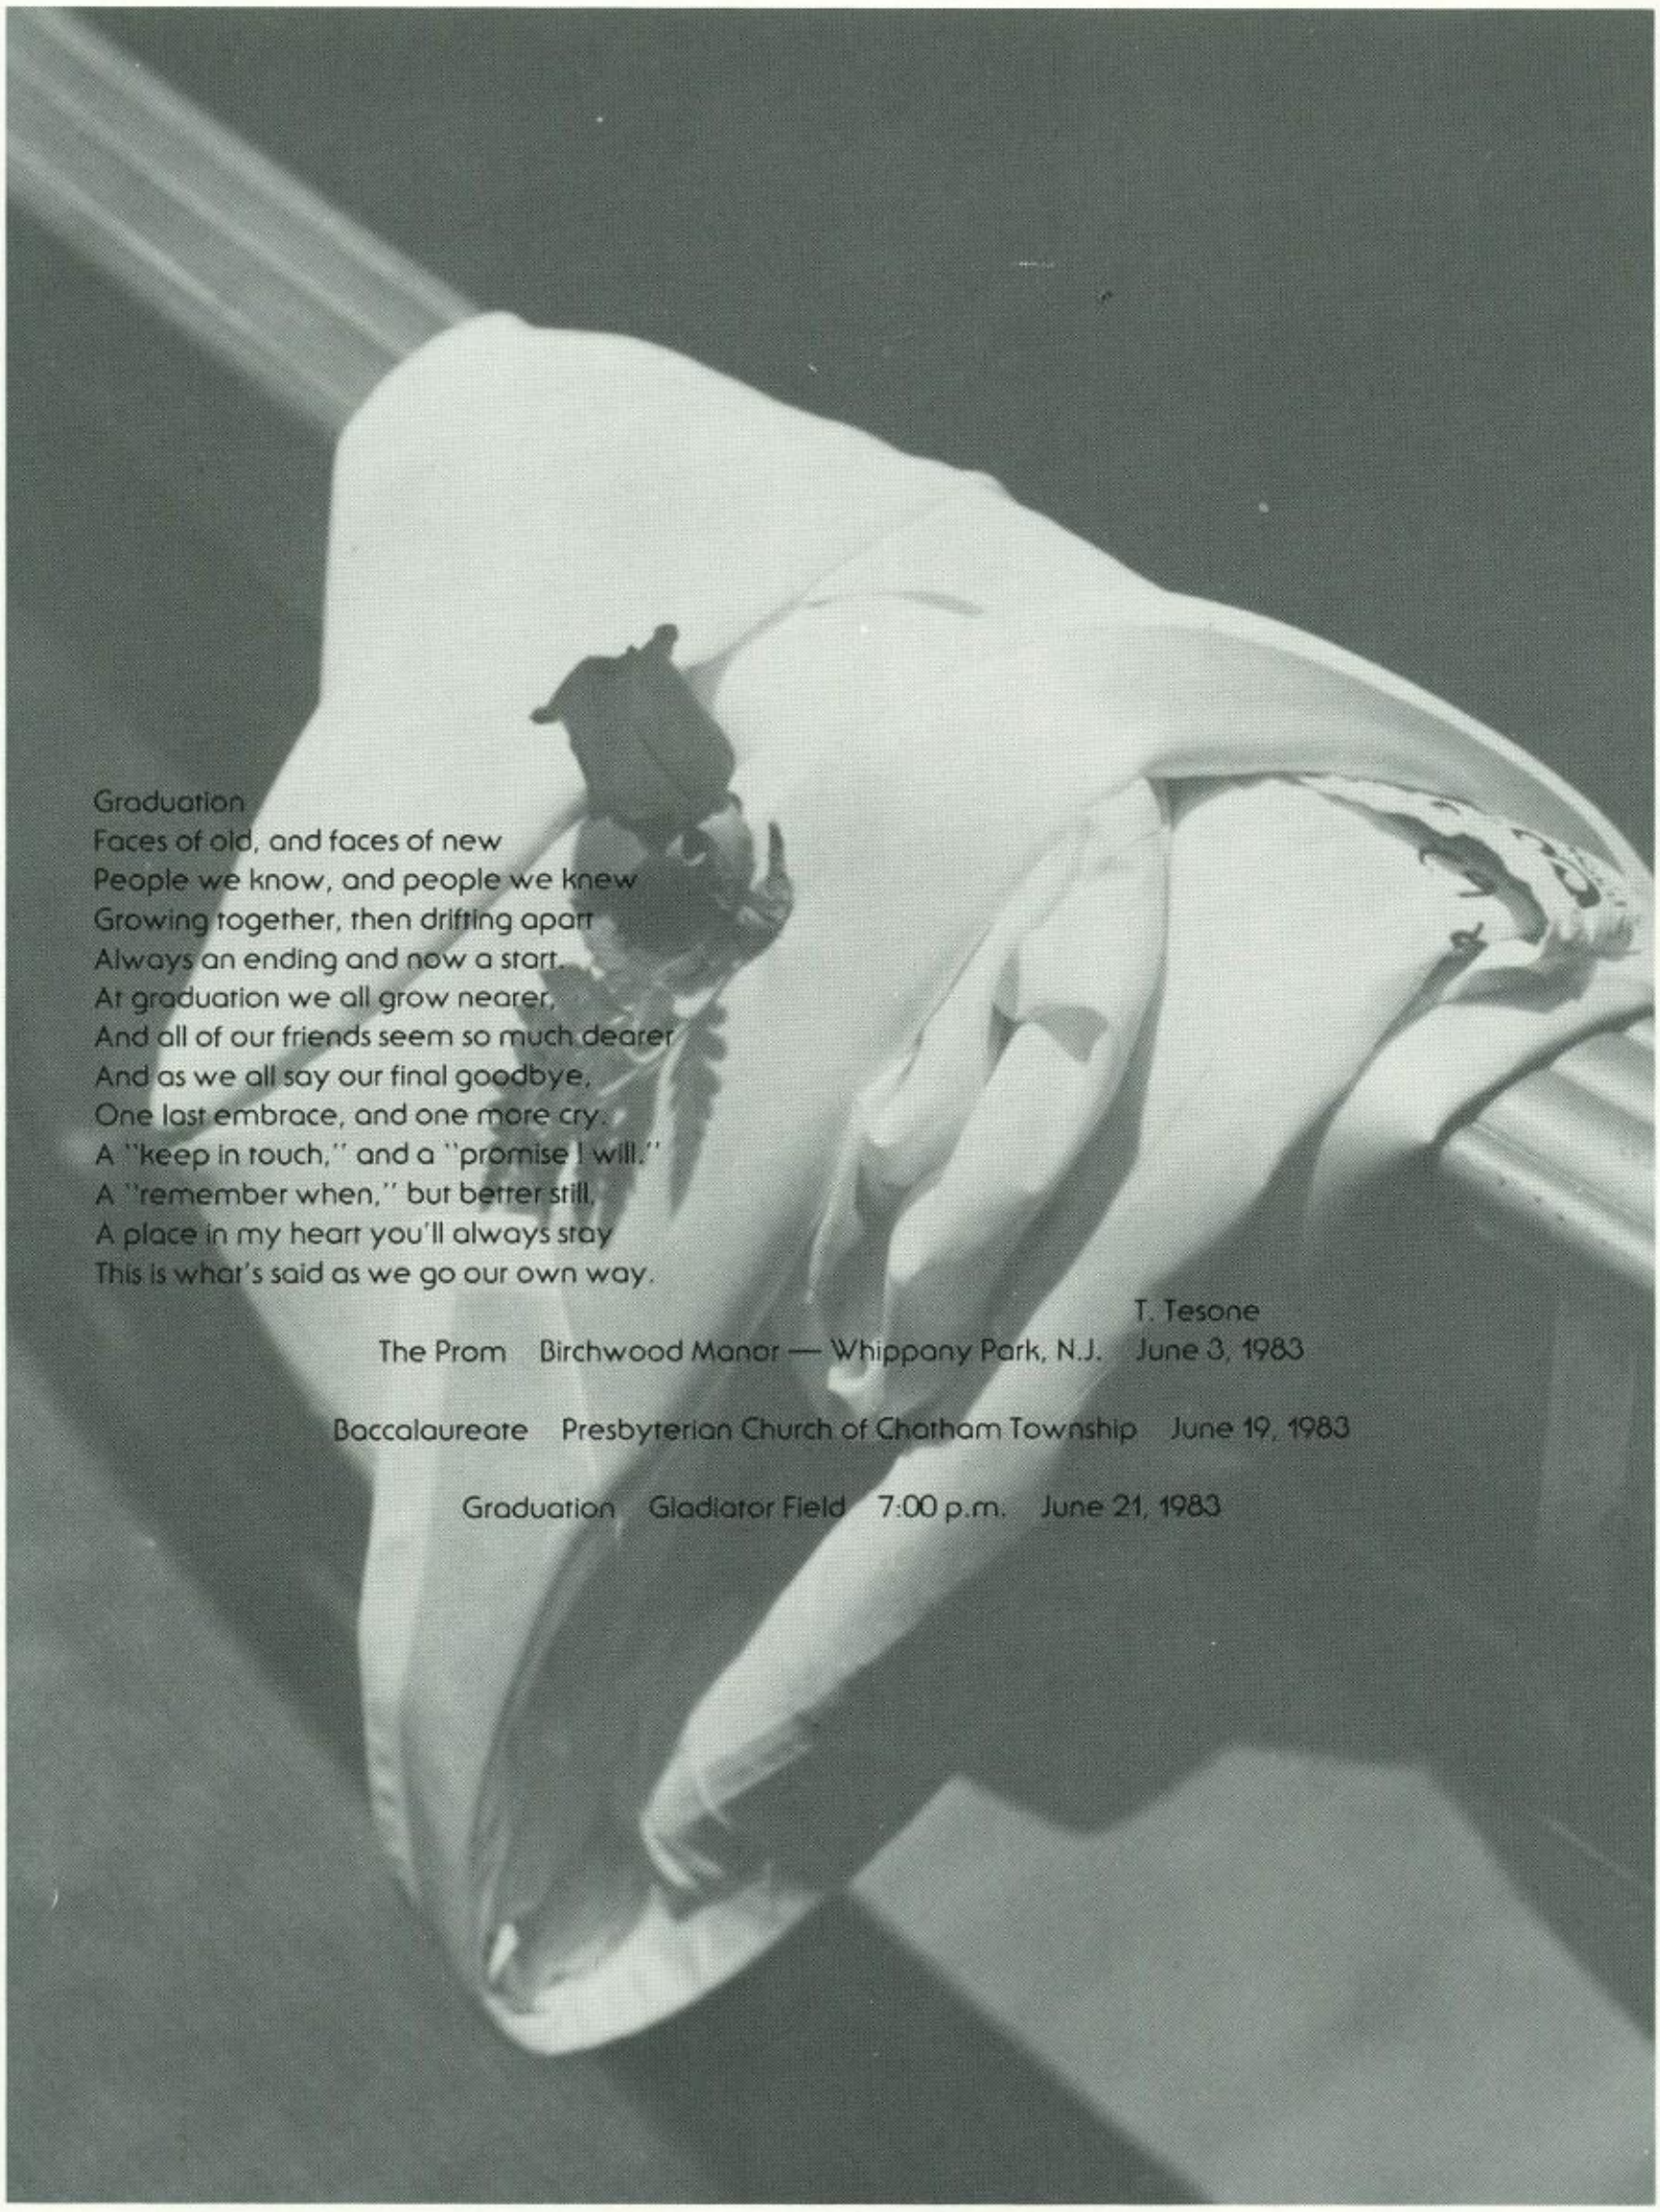
So the beautiful girl, being the ramblin' chick that she is, left arm in arm with Steven to buy the bar in Tiajuana. The curtain came down and the cast received a standing ovation.

On my way out of the theater, I stopped to talk to the theater cleaning man, Don O'Neil, who was busy scraping gum off the seats. "Fantastic show," I said. "Yes, I hear the cast party is at Marco Polo's restaurant and co-owner Stacie Irish has invited all the critics to attend." "No thanks. I have to get this review to my editors Jenny Rustad and Ann Mulford right away."

So here it is: overall, I found "The Class of 1983", a funny, engaging, intelligent, and strange but exciting show. I wish the cast and crew of "The Class of 1983", a long and successful run. Break a leg!

M.E.C.

A special thanks to Marla McCourt for her undying patience.



Graduation
Faces of old, and faces of new
People we know, and people we knew
Growing together, then drifting apart
Always an ending and now a start.
At graduation we all grow nearer,
And all of our friends seem so much dearer
And as we all say our final goodbye,
One last embrace, and one more cry.
A "keep in touch," and a "promise I will."
A "remember when," but better still,
A place in my heart you'll always stay
This is what's said as we go our own way.

Kyra Loudermilk — 1964-1982

To Kyra —
Soar high — fly among the clouds and mountains.
Continue to sing, for the verses of your life will always remain among the souls of those left behind you.

Each note keeps repeating, each word of your song keeps us going.
You lived a life that was meant to reach —
to reach us of life,
laughter,
excitement.
Rarely will one touch so many in so few years.
Rarely will we laugh and love in the same way again.
You were genuine, special. You were yourself.
You dreamed of becoming — becoming excellence, making a difference.
You were excellence, you did make a difference.
So please, continue to sing.

Because that difference is still in the memories of all of us.
The person you were will remain, because you could never completely leave us, your love could never completely vanish.
We'll miss you —

A spark is gone a flame extinguished.
Smiles became tears,
The laughter subsided.
You gave us so much in your lifetime
That losing you was beyond difficult.
Yet when the tears stop
and the laughter returns, we'll remember you with the smiles you gave us.
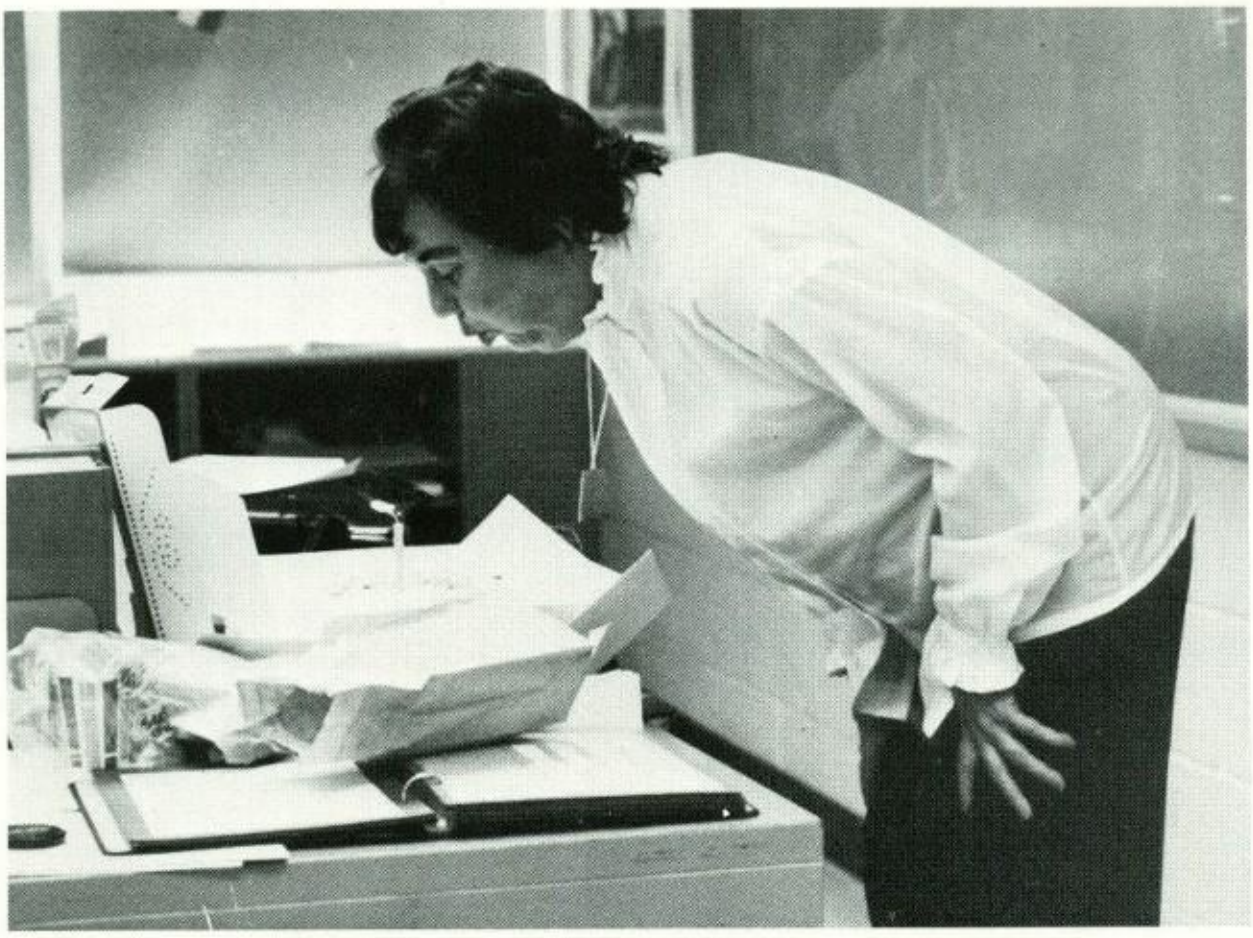
We'll never forget.
We'll never stop missing you.



Jane Sprinkle
English

Jane Sprinkle

. . . No man is an island entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main. If a clod be washed away by the sea, Europe is the less, as well as if a promontory were; as well as if a manor of thy friends or of thine own were. Any man's death diminishes me because I am involved in mankind and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee.

John Donne Meditation XVII

. . . I had to go to the great for this eulogy because we are saying goodbye to one of the great. It is not a clod being washed from the main, it is a promontory.

We are not sad for Jane; we are angry that she has left us. Jane hasn't lost a thing — we have . . . She made us cry but most of all she made us laugh. And a bit of each of us lies in the coffin and the world has been diminished. The bell that tolled for Jane this final time has tolled too for us who hear it. It reminds us that each breath leads us toward that final knell. Let us hope that when it finally tolls for us that we will be missed, as much as Jane will be missed. And so farewell from us all —

William Riley
from the eulogy he gave for
Mrs. Sprinkle

Geoff,
Good luck
Next year.
Yours,
Lucio

Geoff - Biology was great - I hope we have some more classes together next year. I can't believe the years over - it went so fast!! I hope you have a great summer and enjoy every minute of it -

Love -
Rosalie!

Geoff,
Well it was a good year, but I'm glad that its finally over. Too bad we didn't have algebra to the end. Oh, well I hope you have a great summer and good luck in the Boro.

Love, Cathy

Jeff, Mr. Kent is a ... I ... hope ... Boy Scouts ... is well ... have ... Trouble

Jeff,
This year has been really a lot of fun in English class. I'm really glad that I got to know you, you are a really nice kid. Have a really good summer, I hope that you're in some of my classes next year.

Love,
Jennifer

Jeff,
It has been a fun year especially in history ya know!!! Thanks for all the answers on tests (don't tell anyone I cheated) As I have a fantastic summer next year, I'll always remember you. Love always, Valerie

Jeff,
Well today was fun. It was nice knowing you. Hope you have a great summer. Love Christine

Jeff.
It was a great year and it went by so fast. Hope you have a great summer see ya next year.
Love,
Maria

Well a loser
You have fun
the summer!
and stay out of

Love
Marie

Geoff,
This year was fun. I was told getting wierd comments about me while walking down the halls. I'm glad I'm not going to be a freshman anymore (not that you had that problem this year). Remember that before you graduate YOU have to decide if you want Heidi or not. (can't tell her I said that) Since Heidi is telling me to finish I think I'd better hurry. See you next year.

Betty

HAPPINESS IS...
